2019 Smart City Datathon

October 17 – 20
Hong Kong

Call for Participation

Application Deadline
30 June 2019

Many cities are striving for improving the quality of living. They all know the innovation, technology and data can help. The immense amount of data collected in different authorities can be converted into valuable driving forces if data analytics is properly applied. Selected teams will be given a set of smart city related data as well as the open data published by HKSAR Government, and 35 hours to develop innovative models, services or systems with a particular focus that can bring values to the cities. Don't miss out the opportunity to meet talents from other Asian countries and win a prize!!
